

Marketing Intern (unpaid) – 3 Month Role

Location: Remote (with option for in-person meetings if based in Sydney)

Duration: 3 months (Part-time, approx. 2–3 days/week)

About Us

Elevate Consulting Partners is a boutique consultancy at the forefront of workplace culture reform, human rights, and diversity, equity and inclusion. Our clients include government agencies, global brands and purpose-led organisations. We're also the creators of SafeSpace@elevate, Australia's first trauma-informed and culturally safe anonymous reporting platform for workplace harassment and discrimination.

We are currently seeking a creative and driven Marketing Intern to support our next phase of growth, particularly as we expand our presence globally, and build visibility around our new service offerings.

Key Responsibilities

- Assist in content creation for social media (LinkedIn, Instagram), including writing captions, scheduling posts, and basic design using Canva
- Research trends and best practices in DEI marketing and ethical branding
- Help prepare newsletters, and marketing materials for upcoming campaigns
- Track analytics across platforms and prepare short performance reports
- Provide support for events, webinars or launches (where applicable)
- Collaborate with the Founder and team members to brainstorm new ideas for brand visibility

What We're Looking For

- Currently studying or recently completed studies in Marketing, Communications, Media, or related fields
- Strong written communication skills and a flair for storytelling
- Confidence using platforms like Instagram, LinkedIn, Canva, and Mailchimp (or willingness to learn quickly)
- Passion for social justice, DEI, and purpose-driven business
- Self-starter with excellent attention to detail and time management

What You'll Gain

- Mentorship and insight into working at the intersection of social justice, consulting, and brand building
- Experience developing marketing strategies and content for a growing consultancy
- A tailored reference and potential for further paid opportunities with Elevate
- A flexible and supportive work environment
